Art Unit: 2622

1. The examiner regrets being remiss in not providing accurate referencing of an applied patent in the submittal of the last Office action.

Applicant is correct in noting that the given patent number does not correspond to the Patentee so listed by the examiner, in the presentation of the rejection based on 35 USC 102 and 103. Applicant surmised correctly that #6,072,462 may have been intended, as in fact it was.

The following Office action, repeated from the last Office action, now accurately refers to that patent. Applicant accordingly is provided the opportunity to respond anew upon reception of this corrected Office action.

The examiner again regrets prolonging prosecution, and further, burdening the applicant with any additional effort due to the carelessness.

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1, 2 and 10 are now rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Movshovich # 6,072,462 (made of record in a previous communication).

Movshovich (noting particularly Figs. 2 and 3) discloses a digital apparatus 200 (with associated external components) that includes MUX element 208 for receiving from a peripheral device 200 (peripheral thereto in so far as it is a separate component from element 208) interconnected by a bus (channel 207a), bit-mapped on-screen display (OSD) data generated and controlled by peripheral stage 200 (noting internal component 250 detailed in Fig. 3). MUX 208 also serves as a means for receiving a digital stream (RGB input representative of a video program initially applied by tuner 202. MUX also serves to combine in the digital apparatus the bit-mapped OSD data received from peripheral device 200 and the digital stream for eventual display on CRT 212 as a combined image, thereby meeting claim 1.

As for claims 2 and 10, the tuner 202 receives continuous A/V data and OSD data to be updated (e.g. updated channel number: col. 1 lines 19-21) to accommodate the viewer continuously with current programming information, the most recent data replacing that previously stored (indexed) in the peripheral device 200.

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 3 is now rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Movshovich et al.

It would have been obvious to present the OSD data (and updated versions thereof) on any part of the television screen as long as the OSD data is fully readable by the viewer. To do so may require writing over currently displayed imagery (or text/graphical data), which would have been obvious to do since the OSD data is typically prompted by the viewer sporadically during presentation of a video program that is presented for a longer continuous time period compared with OSD data which is relatively much more temporary.

1. Claims 4-9 and 11-14 remain allowable over the prior art.
2. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
